HONGROUG, JANUARY 3RD, 1895. THE Imperial Edict the substance of which has been published by our Shanghai morning contemporary, said to be a reply to a memorial by certain officials suggesting the removal of the capital of China westward, is strophe inevitable? Is there any hope for certainly a remarkable document. There is something pathetic about the whole circumstances. The young Emperor, a pale Are the Treaty Powers (prepared to underand melancholy youth, brought up in the strict seclusion of the Court, without any knowledge of the world save the very limited glimpses of it obtainable from the few books at his disposal, always taught to regard himself as the divinely appointed ruler of the greatest country and people in Asia, the Son of Heaven, Lord of the Drugon Throne, officers. and other high-sounding titles, is suddenly and cruelly disillus onised by the stern logic of facts. After systematic attempts to ling him by mendacious reports of Chinese victories the naked truth at length reaches his ears, and he finds that the despired Woien have triumphed in every step of the campaign, both by land and see that the the C. > The Manila Railway Company's appeal on the question as to the rate at which its guarantee should be paid by the Philippine authorities was to come before the Court in Madrid on 7th November. It is to be hoped, says the London and China Express, for the sake of future enterprise in that Spanish colony that it will be liberally dealt with. It may be remembered that another proposed line, that from Manila to Taal, was put up for auction in Madrid last March, but elicited no bid whatever on the part of contractors. It is understood that this was largely due to the belief that the pioneer railway in the Archipelago had not been treated with any liberality, or even with that justness to which it was entitled.
